Connecting to the UofT wireless network with BlackBerry 10 OS

Note: these instructions were tested on a BlackBerry Q10.

1. Before you can use the UofT wireless network, you must verify your UTORid (you will only need to do this once). Go to https://www.utorid.utoronto.ca/ and click on verify under Problems with your UTORid?.

2. Enter your UTORid and password and click Check. You should see a message stating “Your UTORid and password have been checked and should work.” If you don’t, you will have problems logging in to the UofT wireless network. There will be a short delay between verifying and being able to access UofT wireless network.

3. On the home screen, swipe down from the top of the screen and tap Wi-Fi.

4. Make sure that Wi-Fi is set to On. From the list of wireless networks, tap UofT.

5. Enter your UTORid and password in the Username and Password fields.
6. Tap Connect.

Tags: wireless, BlackBerry

Related entries:

Last update: 2013-08-21 11:58
Author: Amanda Wagner
Revision: 1.1

You can comment on this entry