1. Who is on strike at Centennial College?
Full-time academic staff (professors, librarians and counsellors) represented by the Ontario Public Service Employees Union (OPSEU) are on strike. During the strike, faculty will not perform work-related duties, including contact with students. As a result, all full-time (day, evening and weekend) courses will stop.

2. When did the strike start and how long will it last?
As of October 16th, full-time academic staff at the 24 colleges across Ontario are on strike.

3. Who at U of T Scarborough is affected by this strike?
Students who are currently enrolled in fall session courses taught on the Centennial College campus are impacted. These courses are:

4. Are all Centennial College classes cancelled? Will we be able to take exams? Finish the term on time?
Please check Centennials Student HUB at: https://www.centennialcollege.ca/studenthub/students/all-students/academic-bargaining-faq/ for information about classes. We also encourage you to speak with the Program Chair regarding your program.

5. Will I have to cross a picket line to enter Centennial College?
Yes. For guidelines on crossing a picket line at Centennial College, please refer to the following information: https://www.centennialcollege.ca/about-centennial/guidelines-for-crossing-a-picket-line-at-centennial-college/

6. What is the best way to keep up to date with strike information?
Centennial College will be responsible for ensuring students are informed about the strike situation. Students who are affected by the strike should check for updates via their myCentennial email, the Centennial College website, the StudentHUB https://www.centennialcollege.ca/studenthub/, and the College's Facebook and Twitter pages.

7. I'm concerned that I won't be able to complete my program on time if the strike isn't resolved this term. Will the strike affect my graduation date?
U of T Scarborough students are encouraged to speak to staff in the Office of the Registrar regarding the strike and their particular programs.
